

HOUSE COCKTAILS

A WALK IN THE WOODS barrel aged rye, cedar infused campari, cinzano rouge.	10
MERELY AVOIDING lustau east india solera, cognac, dry curacao, cranberry.	11
SINGAPORE SLING #1 gin, benedictine, cherry heering, lemon, soda.	12
JUMP IN THE LINE rum, genepy, grenadine, lime, brut rose.	11
EDINBURGH BOOGIE scotch, amontillado sherry, lemon, egg white.	11
NO SHRINKING VIOLET empress 1812 gin, lemon, simple syrup, egg white.	10
JUNGLE FIRE mezcal, dolin dry, dry curacao.	11
CZARINA vodka, apricot liqueur, cinzano rouge, dolin dry, mole bitters.	10
MARY PICKFORD rum, pineapple, grenadine, luxardo maraschino liqueur.	11

DRAFT COCKTAILS

PALOMA reposado tequila, clarified lime, grapefruit soda.	10
MANHATTAN bourbon, cinzano rouge vermouth, aromatic bitters.	10
FERNET &amp; GINGER fernet branca, rock & rye ginger beer.	8

TEMPERANCE

ROCK &amp; RYE GINGER BEER ginger root, lemon, honey.	4
BASIL LIMEADE fresh basil, lime, sugar, soda.	4
BRADLEY'S TONIC cinchona bark, spices, cold pressed citrus oils.	2
TOPO CHICO MINERAL WATER water, minerals, co2.	2
SAN PELLEGRINO ARANCIATA ROSSO water, sugar, orange, blood orange, paprika, citric acid.	4

I CONSULT WITH MY BARTENDER IN THE LATE ANTHROPOCENE

Jim Beam?
Kentucky. Yes, we're good.
Pinot grigio? Someone I care about likes pinot grigio a lot. How are we?
Washington vineyards are still OK. We're good.
Kahlua?
Depends on our relationship with Mexico
and the latest angry tweets.
We could ask for a border raid to restock our supplies. Oh, and The Wall makes everything more difficult.
Might be better to switch to a domestic coffee liqueur.
But vanilla beans might be a problem.
Supplies of vanilla beans from Madagascar,
Réunion and South Pacific islands—problematic.
Best go with synthetic vanilla flavoring.
Vodka? Vermouth?
Some excellent American brands. We're good.
Twist? Olives?
Florida and California orchards are gone.
Brazil groves are at risk. Best go with olives.
Pimentos might be a problem, though.
On second thought,
I hope you're not attached to olives. Sorry.
Manhattans?
The island will be partially underwater,
but we'll still have the drink.
Beer? Anchor Steam? IPAs?
Craft beers and domestics are still strong.
Hops crops are somewhat questionable.
Scotch?
We're good for now. We located a stash, paid top dollar for access.
Ice?
Less and less.
Mack, all the questions—why?
I'm worried.
Brewers and distillers are endlessly inventive.
We're good. There'll be something to drink.
Trust me.
Water?
Ah, there's the biggest challenge.
In any case, prices will go up.
But—you get what you pay for, right?